PROGRAM REPORT

Name of the event: A Two-week certificate program on EMERGING TRENDS IN PHARMACOLOGY AND PHARMACOTHERAPEUTICS.

Dates: 10.04.2024 to 26.04.2024

Resource person: Dr. Y. RUPA RAGHAVI

Associate. Professor, Nimra College of pharmacy

Email id: yantapallirupa@gmail.com

Contact number: 7032493883

Name of the coordinator: Dr.S. PRIYANKA

Objective of the program:

- Personalized medicine. ...
- Artificial intelligence and machine learning. ...
- Biopharmaceuticals and gene therapy. ...
- Nanotechnology. ...
- Tele pharmacy and digital health. ...
- Sustainable pharmaceuticals. ...
- Regenerative medicine. ...
- Blockchain in pharmaceuticals

Topics to be covered:

- Primary prevention of diabetic retinopathy for the rural population
- Anti-obesity pharmacotherapy: new drugs and emerging targets
- Current trends in drug metabolism and pharmacokinetics

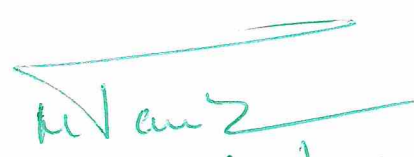

- Current status and future directions in the pharmacotherapy of epilepsy
- Nano medicine-based drug targeting for psoriasis

Learning outcomes:

- Intravitreal anti-inflammatory (corticosteroids) and anti-angiogenesis (anti-Vascular Endothelial Growth Factor) agents are being used as wide options for the pharmacotherapy of DR and diabetic macular edema (DME)
- Obesity is a growing pandemic, and related health and economic costs are staggering. Pharmacotherapy, partnered with lifestyle modifications, forms the core of current strategies to reduce the burden of this disease and its sequelae.
- Pharmacokinetics (PK) is the study of the absorption, distribution, metabolism, and excretion (ADME) processes of a drug. Understanding PK properties is essential for drug development and precision medication.
- Considerable progress in the pharmacotherapy of epilepsy has been witnessed during the 20th century. Furthermore, currently there are no drugs available that prevent the development of epilepsy following, for example, head trauma.
- Psoriasis is a T-cell mediated autoimmune inflammatory skin disease recognized by skin surface inflammation, epidermal proliferation, hyperkeratosis, angiogenesis and anomalous keratinization. Currently, various pharmacotherapies are available for it; however, pharmacotherapy based on conventional formulations can provide therapeutic benefits only to a limited extent.

Resource person: Dr. SK. HAFEEZUNNISA

Asst.Professor, Nimra College of pharmacy

Email id: skhafeezunnisa@gmail.com

Contact number: 7032318969

Name of the coordinator: Dr.P. GOPI

Objective of the program:

- The value of new medicines Cancer, Cardiovascular Disease or HIV are currently probably amongst the areas of highest public interest
- value of new medicines and the innovation capabilities of pharmaceutical companies
- Innovation capabilities of pharmaceutical industries
- Sustaining innovations in the market place-the issue of risk
- Redressing the regulatory balance
- Other determinations of innovative performances

Topics to be covered:

- Therapeutic targets for the future
- Morbidity; the unresolved problems
- Improved control of disease
- Novel routes to therapeutic advance
- Interferons in cancer

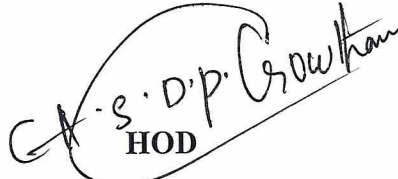

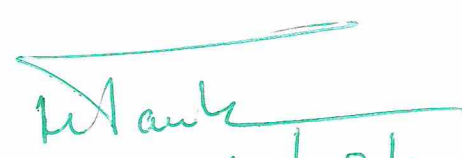

- Chemical messengers and new therapies
- Progress in immunology

Learning outcomes:

- Improved control of diseases will be dependent in larger measure upon the evolution of novel chemotherapies. This progress can also be expected to stem from the further development of currently available treatments.
- Over the past few years international meetings have been concerned with the identification of those areas in which therapeutic advance most likely to be achieved.
- Early laboratory studies show that in addition to their antiviral activity interferons could reduce or prevent the development of tumours in mice and other animals infected with cancer viruses.
- Elucidation of stimulatory effects of nor adrenaline and adrenaline in heart led to the development of beta blockers.
- The progress of immunology is with the discovery of general structure of the antibodies and the recognition of the role of lymphocytes in the production.

PROGRAM REPORT

Name of the event: A Two-week certificate program on MULTIFUNCTIONAL DRESSINGS FOR ACCELERATED WOUND HEALING

Dates: 12.02.2024 to 24.02.2024

Resource person: Dr. CH.S.D.P.GOWTHAMI

Asst.Professor, Nimra College of pharmacy

Email id: chgowthami123@gmail.com

Contact number: 7032743219

Name of the coordinator: Dr.Sk.KHALEEL

Objective of the program:

- Importance of hydro gels in wound dressing
- Electro spun multifunctional fibres
- Mesenchymal stem cells (MSC-SLP) with a sandwich-structured wound dressing (SWD).
- Silver nanoparticles loaded triple-layered cellulose-acetate based multifunctional dressing for wound healing

Topics to be covered:

- Types of wounds
- Assessment of wounds
- Stages of wound healing
- Advancements in dressings
- Process of tissue remodelling

Learning outcomes:

- A hydro gel wound dressing composed of tilapia skin gelatine (Tsg) and fucoidan (Fuc) was designed to enhance the microenvironment of wound treatment and stimulate wound healing.
- Traditional wound dressings such as gauze, hydrocolloids, films and foams are single-function, acting as a physical barrier or absorbing exudates
- Recently, several antibacterial strategies have been integrated with wound repair approaches that use the in situ generation of reactive oxygen species (ROS), such as hydrogen peroxide ( $H_2O_2$ ), hydroxyl radicals ( $\cdot OH$ ), and superoxide ( $\cdot O_2^-$ ) to produce oxidative stress and bacterial cell damage
- Chitosan hydro gel was used as a triboelectric and encapsulation layer because of its excellent biocompatibility, bioabsorbability, and biodegradability. The developed dressing is highly flexible thus offering substantial conformal contact with full-thickness wounds
